TOTAL POPULATION, INCREASE, AND DISTRIBUTION.

Population of the state.—Nevada was organized as a territory in 1861 and was admitted to the Union as the thirty-sixth state in October, 1864. According to the Fourteenth Census, taken as of January 1, 1920, its population is 77,407, which represents a decrease of 4,468, or 5.5 per cent, as compared with the 1910 figure. During the same period the population of the United States increased by 14.9 per cent. The following summary shows the population of Nevada from 1860 to 1920, inclusive, together with the increase for each decade, in comparison with the per cent of increase for the United States as a whole:

POPULATION OF NEVADA: 1860 TO 1920.

Counties.—Nevada has 17 counties, of which 5 show increases and 10 decreases as compared with 1910. (See Table 1.) The great decrease in Esmeralda County during the last decade is due to the fact that part of its territory has been taken to form Mineral County and part has been annexed to Nye County since 1910; and the large decrease in Humboldt County is due to the formation of a new county, Pershing, from a part of its territory since 1910. It has been necessary, therefore, in preparing the maps on page 3, which show the rates of increase and decrease in total and rural population by counties, to combine Esmeralda and Mineral Counties and Humboldt and Pershing Counties.

Density of population.—The total land area of the state is 109,821 square miles. The average number of inhabitants to the square mile in 1920 is 0.7 (see Table 1), as compared with 0.7 in 1910 and 0.4 in 1900.

Minor civil divisions.—The political units into which the counties are divided are collectively termed "minor civil divisions." The counties of Nevada are made up of 222 primary divisions, comprising 188 election precincts (including 1—Newark, in White Pine County—for which no population was returned in 1920), 29 townships, 3 mining districts, 1 district, and 2 unincorporated cities (Tonopah and Virginia City). There are also 15 secondary divisions, comprising 10 cities, including 1 for which the population was not returned separately, and 5 towns. One city and 3 towns are coextensive with the precincts in which located and 1 city and 1 town each comprise 5 precincts. Besides these primary and secondary divisions there are 3 Indian reservations and parts of 2 others which, though independent of the county organizations, have been returned as parts of the counties in which located, and a tract not located in any precinct.

POPULATION—NEVADA.

Cities.—Nevada has 12 cities, but, as previously stated, 2 are unincorporated. Reno, with a population of 12,016, is the largest. (See Tables 3 and 4.)

The following summary shows, for Reno—the only city having more than 5,000 inhabitants in 1920—the population at each census for which figures are available, together with the number and per cent of increase during the preceding decade:

POPULATION OF RENO CITY: 1870 TO 1920.

1890.....	3,563	2,261	173.7
1880.....	1,302	267	25.8
1870.....	1,035

Urban and rural population.—The Census Bureau defines urban population as that residing in cities and other incorporated places having 2,500 inhabitants or more, and rural population as that residing outside such incorporated places.

The following summary presents, for the last three censuses, figures showing the urban and rural population of the state. The classification for each census is based upon the population of the various places as shown by the returns of that census. As a result, the figures for the three censuses covered by the table do not relate to exactly the same urban and rural territory, respectively, since some territory which was rural in one census year may have become urban when the next census was taken, or the reverse change may have taken place. The proportion of the population of Nevada living in places of 2,500 or more decreased from 17 per cent in 1900 to 16.3 per cent in 1910 and increased to 19.7 per cent in 1920.

TABLE 1.—AREA AND POPULATION OF COUNTIES: 1880 TO 1920.

[In computing the increase from 1880 to 1900 the population of Indian reservations in 1900 has been deducted from the total population of the county in order to make that total comparable with the total for 1880, which does not include the population of Indian reservations. The population thus deducted in the several counties was as follows: Elko, 439; Esmeralda, 392; Lincoln, 137; Washoe, 705.]
